Getting Ahead in a Just Gettin' by World

It is a busy Thursday evening at Northminster Presbyterian Church. A group of around ten people meet every week in one of the church classrooms to attend a "Getting Ahead" class. This program run by ICS and funded by the Pima County "Ending Poverty Now" initiative helps ensure people are not just getting by, but are instead "getting ahead" with an intensive 16-week course designed for people in or near poverty.

For three hours each week,

'investigators', as participants are called, help each other work through modules in the Getting Ahead workbook. They discuss the challenges they face in their lives. The class provides a safe learning environment to explore the impact of poverty on themselves, their families and their communities. Participants assess their own resources and make plans for their own future. Class facilitators learn alongside the investigators. Together they explore the modules designed to dig deep into the causes and systems of stagnation that may be holding them back. Investigators look frankly at their situations and begin to map out

A Word from the CEO

Dear Friends of ICS,

Recently I moved my office next to the Northwest ICS Job Resource Center. Some days I can't help but overhear the stories of those coming in. Being unemployed and not knowing where to turn can be stressful for any of us. But someone from ICS is always there in a time of need.

At ICS, it's not about one-time help and shuffling people out the door. It's not enough to give aid without support to address an ongoing barrier.

This issue, you'll read about Elaine. She came to ICS for assistance to prevent homelessness. Through our Steps to Stability program, we helped with that need but didn't stop there. Elaine joined our new Getting Ahead effort. I was at the workshop when she celebrated a new certification and now has a new job.

ICS can only be there to facilitate the journey out of poverty and into opportunity with your support. Thanks for sharing help that means hope.

Serving with you,

K. Daniel Stoltzfus
Chief Executive Officer

ways to move from instability towards prosperity.

Elaine heard about the 16-week course at the ICS Job Resource Center. Elaine has participated in the ICS "Steps to Stability" program and was a regular at the Resource Center. When she heard about the class she thought it would be a good fit for her and her daughter.

Elaine says she has been truly blessed. After a brief period of homelessness, she got help from Gospel Rescue Mission and rental assistance from ICS. She was able to purchase a mobile home, and ICS was able to help her get a working stove and air conditioner. Elaine has been pursuing her certificate as a recovery support specialist and works at a local nonprofit. She has been struck by the diversity of the participants in the Getting Ahead program. Elaine says the most challenging part of the workshops has been sharing her own

Alisa is a co-facilitator and a graduate of the Getting Ahead classes. Just 16 months ago, Alisa completed the Getting Ahead workshop through Pima County's "MAMA" project. Since then she has gone on to complete the "Caridad Culinary Training" program through the Community Food Bank of Southern Arizona and completed Understanding Poverty workshops and Getting Ahead Facilitator Training with Pima County Ending Poverty Now initiative. The impact of the program on her life has been dramatic.

Alisa first heard about the Getting Ahead workshops through a family member. Alisa was a teen mom, and now at 29 has three children ages 13, 11 and 2. She says she comes from generational poverty and cannot say enough good things about the Getting Ahead program. It has been life changing for her and has helped her see things in new ways. She and her fiancé have moved to a new house, are both working for a photography company that is growing. She has completed the culinary training program at Caridad which taps into her passion for cooking, and she has begun facilitating Getting Ahead workshops. When asked what is the one thing she wishes everyone knew about the program, she pauses and takes a deep breath. "I feel very strongly about the Getting Ahead program. It affects every part of your life; spiritual, mental, financial, material. I wish everybody could take the course. "

The 16-week course is nearing its completion. More classes are planned to begin in August. To learn more about participating in the Getting Ahead workshop contact Paula Ryan, ICS Resource Center Coordinator at pryan@icstucson.org or 520-526-9320

Volunteer News

ICS volunteers engage in a plethora of helping opportunities to impact thousands in our community every year. Here are just some of the ways our volunteer help others in some high needs areas! Reception help at the ICS Eastside office at Camino Seco and Old Spanish Trail. Volunteers are in great need to answer phones and greet clients. Summertime drivers are needed to help with shopping and essential appointments or errands for those no longer able to drive. Did you know that our transportation department currently serves 2088 recipients and our summer driving pool went from 220 to 80 drivers to serve all those recipients? To help recruit more drivers, we again offer our summer ANYWHERE driver incentive program. For each ANYWHERE ride you provide your name is entered into a monthly raffle. Go to www.icstucson.org and click on the volunteer tab to learn more or contact Volunteer Resources Manager Tori Carlson at tcarlson@icstucson.org or 526-9308.

Mental Health Lunch and Learn:

The Relationship between Mental Illness and Poverty

We had a terrific turnout at our Spring Mental Health Lunch and Learn which took place on May 17 at Congregation Anshei Israel. The topic was the relationship between Mental Illness and Poverty, with story tellers Darlene Gonzales and Jenifer Frost, who shared their incredible experiences and inspirational stories of resilience. The Keynote speaker was Matthew Pate, LMSW, of the City of Tucson Ward 5 Council office. The lunch and learn also included a resource fair with participants including Gospel Rescue Mission, NAMI Southern Arizona, Our Family Services, Primavera, St. Vincent DePaul, Sonora Behavioral Health, and Community Food Bank of Southern Arizona. Thank you to our sponsors: Cenpatico/Arizona Complete Health, Catalina In-Home services, Thrivent Financial, Palo Verde Behavioral Health, .

Mobile Food Pantry

The sun peaks over the Rincon Mountains and people bustle about, excited as the truck unloads pallets of produce and bread. A line is forming and you can hear bits of English and Spanish sprinkled throughout the crowd. This is the El Pueblo Mobile Food Pantry, a partnership of Interfaith Community Services (ICS) and the Community Food Bank of Southern Arizona with the goal of increasing food accessibility on the south side of town. Next to the bustling Roy Laos Transit Center, this ICS mobile food pantry is seeing close to 185 families every fourth Friday of the month and distributing over 10,000 lbs. of food to the community. The Community Food Bank is down the road, but they are already serving over 9,000 families per month at their headquarters and the need to expand access to food in this area is of utmost priority.

Over the past several years, ICS has taken note of the increasing number of families that are visiting the Northwest ICS Food Bank from the south side of town. In an effort to reach out to those families with necessary food items, ICS is providing produce and bread at their new Southside office in one of the most highly trafficked community centers in Tucson. With organizations like El Rio Community Health Center, Congressman Raul Grijalva's office and Emerge! Domestic Abuse Treatment Center (among many others at the center), the addition of emergency food will be yet another support to the community and those in need. For more information about how to get food, or volunteer to help distribute food, please contact Lauryn Valladarez at 520-526-9288.
